

About Broadway Plays and Players

By HENRY DUBOIS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(Herald Staff Writer.)—The whole Broadway drama world looks to America for new plays.

"Our authors have never had a better chance than that offered now for the presentation of their works in Europe," he said last night. "The English theatergoer wants fun and frivolity. Plays like 'French Leave' and 'Lord Richard in the Pantry' are jacking the theaters. However, I predict a reaction will set in soon and the serious drama will get its greatest endorsement in London."

Mr. Klaw expects to present in America 'Vendetta' and 'Verona,' also Edna Best, now appearing in London.

One-Sided Cheer

HOW good it is to meet a man, or woman, as the case may be, who thinks my gifts are greater than

My work is always gladly done, And I am sure that striving pays, When I have been thinking to one, Who tells me that I merit praise.

MAY have cause sometimes to doubt Their what they say is strictly true; They may not be quite clear about Their purpose I have in view.

But, even so, their praise is sweet; The winding ways seem smooth and straight; When I have had the luck to meet A man who tells me I am great.

WORDS AND DEEDS. The man who says "I don't it" and did it several times ahead of the one who knows that it is proper to say "I did it," but is still waiting for a favorable opportunity.

Every man is rich in the estimation of the one who is a little worse off.

A TREMENDOUS CHANGE. Prohibition has put an end to a lot of peevishness. Think of the amount of it that used to be exhibited by men who tried to borrow money with which to buy drinks.

Julian Winter, Richard Schindler, Basil Smith, Lloyd Chalmers and many others.

TINNEY GETS A FRIGHT. Before the curtain went up on "Little Ma," at the Savoy theater, Saturday night, Arthur Hammerstein looked through the peephole and, turning to Frank Tinney, said:

"You're a little nervous, aren't you? It's now 10:30 and there's only one man in the house."

Nervously Frank took a peep. A small, slight, thin, pale man, with a thin side of the head and he saw only his own shadow.

He took a drink of that famous Hammerstein tonic.

TO "SURPRISE" SON. "There was a 'surprise' awaiting John Phillip Sousa and it was spring when he and his band played at the Hippodrome Sunday night.

Edith Bonart, a talented actress from the west, will succeed Muriel Martin Harvey in "Happy-Go-Lucky" at the Booth theater.

THE "MECCA" CAST. In the cast of "Mecca," which Comstock & Co. will present at the Century on October 4 will be Gladys Hanson, Hannah Tobacco, Kate Mayhew, Ida Melle, Genevieve Delora, Audrey Anderson, Martha Lister, May Park, Margaret Broadbent, Elizabeth Talma, Lionel Graham, Herbert Grimwood, John Doran, Gertrude Caldwell, John Nicholson, Thomas Leary, Harold Skinner, John Flanagan, Robert Rhodes.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY. Oh, go, Willie, the Arthur Hammerstein office boy, says bankers go to Canada because it is a good place to run to.

FOOLISHNESS. Matilda saw a little snake. Said she to Brother Jimmy: "Oh, see the viper for goodness sake! It's caught itself to whiskey."

FROM THE CHESTNUT TREE. "It's a dog-wood tree." "How can you tell?" "By its bark."

CROOKEDNESS IN THE SALE OF FRENCH WAR MATERIALS. Paris, France, Sept. 21.—(Two thousand eight hundred and eighty-two government employees have been arrested, dismissed or suspended in connection with the sale of left-over American, British and French war stocks, since the appointment of Emmanuel Brousse as premier minister began at home. Many of them are now in La Santé prison.

The American stocks proved a great attraction to employees, who were lured by the idea that liquidation began at home. Many of them are now in La Santé prison.

Massaging The Scalp.

VERY frequently all the scalp needs to produce a growth of heavy, lustrous hair, is a little bit of daily stimulation. Possibly all it requires is a fairly thorough massage with the fingers tips. I have a theory which many people laugh at, which is simply this—if you neglect any part of your body it will actually feel the neglect and suffer in consequence just as a neglected child suffers and shrinks and remains undeveloped. If you do not give your hair, for instance, and if you neglect it, it will certainly suffer as a result.

I have seen this work out as often that I assure you I quite believe my own theory. But even if you do not, you will recognize the value of a little care. Whether you give your Scalp this care for sentimental or for practical reasons does not matter at all. The important thing is that you should give it this daily stimulation if it is not as heavy and thick and lustrous as you desire.

Hair tonics, of course, are valuable if they are any good at all. I mean by that, different conditions of the scalp require different sorts of tonics, and your scalp will not benefit if you give it oil when it needs astringents, or something irritating when it needs something soothing.

Massage is frequently as valuable as tonics and sometimes more so. You may be in doubt about using a tonic, but you need never hesitate to massage the scalp for massage is always beneficial. It keeps the scalp loose and healthy and it draws up the fresh life-giving blood to the roots of the hair.

A Reader—Removing superfluous hair with an electric needle is such a simple thing, there is no risk whatever. You should have no trouble finding a beauty parlor where it is done effectively. The needle is inserted into the hair follicle and the current destroys the root. The hair that is removed will never grow again, but that does not mean that you will never have the tendency to grow more hair, through no hair will grow in that particular place. No, you do not have to continue the treatment.

Miss Blende—I do not know anything about the preparation you mention. You can color your hair yourself with walnut juice. Have someone with a steady hand apply it with a fine camel's hair brush, so the stain will not get on your skin. Red vas-lin is a tonic and will also darken blonde lashes. It should also be applied with a fine brush.
